Representative Cole Named To Three Important Committees

Congressman From 37th District to Serve on District of Columbia, Education and Insular Affairs Groups —Bears Distinction of Being Youngest Member of Lower House.

Representative W. Sterling Cole of the 37th District, youngest member of the House of Representatives, has been named to three of the most important committees of that body. He has been assigned to the District of Columbia, Education and Insular Affairs committees and will find his time outside of congressional meetings, taken up largely with the affairs of these groups.

Attorney Cole is especially fitted for the Education Committee assignment as he was an honor student and president of his classes in Colgate University and at Albany Law School, as well as an instructor in Civil Government and Theory of Business at the Corning Free Academy. Since entering the practice of law he has kept himself fully advised on educational affairs and is a recognized authority. His father, Attorney Ernest E. Cole, is counsel for and assistant commissioner of education of the New York State Department of Education.

As a member of the District of Columbia Committee he will be one of the governors of that area, with the various departments of government, including police and fire protection, under his jurisdiction. Due to the fact the district is controlled entirely by Congress his appointment places him much in the position of a city manager, or member of a city manager's cabinet, with resultant duties. The position carries with it grave responsibilities for good government and residents of that great area will hold him and his associates responsible for anything that goes wrong.

Insular Affairs appointment also entails much responsibility as under control of this group are such possessions as Alaska and the Philippine Islands. Just at present with impending changes of government in the island this group will have more than ordinary work to do as well as require utmost diplomacy in keeping the changing relations with the United States from causing friction. Because of conditions arising it is expected that Attorney Cole and some of his associates will be compelled to visit the islands during the summer recess of Congress to gain information at first hand for the guidance of next year's congressional activities.

Attorney Cole is being congratulated by his congressional associates upon the honors that have come to him and they predict he will be one of the outstanding figures in the House of Representatives in the near future due to his legal training and wide experience.

Motorists Must Buy New Licenses At Once

Albany, N, Y, Jan 13 — The failure of many motorists to apply for re-registration means a rush at the offices of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles during the closing days of the month. While the 1935 plates must be displayed February 1, they may be attached at once. Securing new plates now is a matter of less than five minutes, while later in the month an hour or more may be lost before the car owner's application can be verified.

Charles A. Harnett, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, has provided facilities for convenient service at all offices of the Bureau, but without co-operation of the public, confusion and delay cannot be avoided.

The motor car owner is reminded that the 1935 plates may be secured by mailing an application to the nearest office. An application should be accompanied by the 1934 renewal stub and a check or money order — not cash — for the fee. New plates will be mailed immediately.

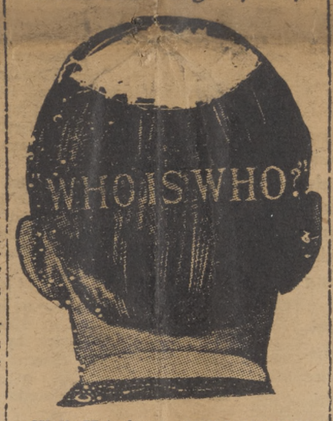
"WHO IS WHO"

Woodhull's Big Mystery



Well, He's here, "WHO IS WHO" the big mystery, what does it all mean? Cash Rewards, Gee; Everybody all over the territory in which the Woodhull Sentinel circulates is talking about WHO IS WHO and asking questions. Have YOU seen WHO IS WHO?

Nobody seems to be able to answer the question, " Who is Who?". Hundreds of people have seen and and read the big cards displayed in the store windows and in prominent places of business picturing the back of a man's head and have also niticed that cash rewards are offered for finding WHO IS WHO.

Many prominent business and professional men have been stopped on the street and asked to kindly remove their hats that a better view could be had of the back of their heads.

Others have written letters to the SENTINEL requesting more information and the publisher is anxious to help you all he can and will publish from time to time such information as he gets that he feels will assist you in finding WHO IS WHO as he is naturally desirous to see some one of his many readers capture a nice bunch of easy money. And readers of the SENTINEL know from past experience that there is no catch, trick or strings tied to any offer made by your home paper.

You also know when the Woodhull Sentinel starts out to do something it's done in a big way and with a view to help the community in which we live, a better place to live and a better place for our children to live and receive an education to help business and professional people of our village and those around us.

So we say now, don't give up, find WHO IS WHO, ask everybody, get all the information you can and we'll help you and above all, DON'T MISS NEXT WEEK'S ISSUE of the Woodhull Sentinel, and each of the succeeding issues.

"PEEPING TOM" VISITS TOWN

Residents of Woodhull were annoyed last week by several visits of a "Peeping Tom."

His identity was discovered and he immediately left town when requested to do so.

Earle Brown Reports On Grange Convention

At the regular meeting of Woodhull Grange held Saturday evening a report of the State Grange recently held in Niagara Falls was given by Earle Brown.

During the lecturer's program a short play was presented as follows: "The Farm Inventory" — a conversation between a Banker, two farmers and a farmer's wife.

Characters — Mr. Wall, the key banker in the county, Carl Andrews; Jim, a farmer who wants to borrow some money, Earle Brown; Bill, another farmer, Parke Boyd. Sarah, Bill's wife, Mrs. Parke Boyd, time: 10:30 a. m. in early January, 1935. Place: Bankers office.

The prologue was read by Mrs. Lula Kilmer.

Following this a variety shower was given Mr. and Mrs. Ford Woodward. Many attractive and useful gifts were given the newly weds. A unique feature of the shower was that Mr. and Mrs. Woodward were to guess what each article was and what it should be used for before opening it.

Games were played at the close of the meeting. About forty were present.

Hi-Lights and Shadows of the Week's News

As the defense attorneys in the Hauptmann case were attempting to prove that Bruno received the ransom money from his companion Isador Fisch, the prosecution were bringing Fisch's relatives from Germany to testify in their kin's favor. The prosecution believes it can explode the alibi behind which Hauptmann has endeavored to hide ever since he was arrested last summer. The trial through the past week has been taken up largely with routine testimony of writing experts who have sworn Hauptmann wrote all of the Lindbergh ransom notes. It is expected the defense will open its side of the case next week.

Ivan E. Symonds Weds Miss Martin In Pretty Ceremony at Sanford, Fla.

Woodhull Yonng Man is Married Sunday Morning at First Baptist Church By Rev. W. P. Brooks — Honeymoon Trip to Lake Wales and St. Petersburg.

Following is an account of the wedding of Ivan Symonds as it appeared in the Sanford Herald, Sanford Florida, which is of interest to Mr. Symond's many friends and relatives in Woodhull.

"Before a large group of friends and relatives, the marriage of Miss Ruth Loyce Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hall of this city and Ivan E. Symonds, son of Mrs. Ida Symonds of Woodhull, N. Y., was solemnized Sunday morning at 9:00 o'clock at the First Baptist Church. The Rev. W. P. Brooks Jr., pastor of the church, performed the ring ceremony.

"Forming a suitable background for the bridal party was the green and white floral arrangement before the altar and choir loft. On each side of the altar were pedestal baskets of fern, yellow iris, delphinium and white snapdragons while other floor baskets and bowls held yellow gladioli and white snapdragons. White candles in crystal holders cast a soft glow about the church.

"Before the ceremony, Mrs. W. E. Betts and Mrs. J. H. Leuffgen of Detroit, Michigan, aunts of the bride, sang a duet, "At Dawning" by Charles Wakefield Cadman. Miss Mildred Nix, who served as accompanist, played the other wedding music which consisted of Perlude, Nocturne by Chopin, Lohengrin's Bridal Chorus, Meditation by Morrison and Mendelssohn's Recessional.

The bride had as her matron of honor, her sister, Mrs. H. F. Neiswander while Clinton E. Bennett of Sodus, N. Y. served as best man.

Miss Martin was married in navy blue ensemble suit trimmed with silver buttons. Her accessories were in blue and she carried a shower boquet of white sweet peas and baby breath.

"A gray afternoon frock with black trimming was worn by the matron of honor with black hat, shoes and gloves. Her shower boquet was of delphinium, baby breath and African daisies.

"The bride's mother, Mrs. J. C. Hall, selected for the occassion an ensemble of yellow crepe worn with brown accessories.

"Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Symonds left for a short honeymoon to be spent in Lake Wales and St. Petersburg. On their return they will live on Magnolia Avenue.

Mrs. Symonds was born in Rio Grande, Ohio, but came to Sanford at an early age. She attended the public schools of the city and was graduated from Seminole High School with the class of 1931. Mr. Symonds was born in New York where he spent the greater part of his life. For the past three years he has been spending the winters in Sanford and is engaged in the produce business of F. L. Bennett of Sodus, N. Y.

"Out of town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Leuffgen and children Herbert and Dorothy of Detroit, Michigan.

Car Overturns On Addison Road

Last week Tuesday evening as Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Conroy and Earle Hill were returning from Corning their car turned over as it left the road near the farm of Walter Hargrave on the Woodhull Addison highway.

When Mr. Conroy discovered something wrong with the front of the car he applied the brakes and immediately the car overturned.

The car was badly damaged, the engine was driven back into the car, the top completely torn off and one side of the car ripped off.

Mr. Conroy and Mr. Hill were severely shaken up. Mrs. Conroy suffered internal injuries. She was removed to the Bethesda Hospital in Hornell Saturday in the Smith ambulance.

MRS. G. ERNEST MORGAN

The funeral services for Mrs. G. Ernest Morgan were held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the home on Jasper Street.

The Rev. Benjamin R. Croft, pastor of the Woodhull Baptist Church officiated. Burial was made in East Troupsburg Cemetery.

THE HAUPTMANN TRIAL

With the Hauptmann trial nearing the end of its second week, public interest in the outcome continues at a fever pitch. Telegraph wires sufficient to care for a city of one million people have been carrying the story of the trial not only to every niche in this country, but to Europe as well. Even the Christian Science Monitor, a newspaper that is supposed to publish no crime news, is running a column or more a day on the subject.

It is not to be wondered at, that interest in the trial should be strong, when one remembers the crime it attempts to solve was the most publicized kidnaping in the world's history. The wide renown of the Lindbergh family, the dramatic way in which the child was snatched with his parents a few feet away, the widespread search, the mysterious ransom negotiations through the press and finally, the expose of the great hoax revealed by the discovery of the dead child's body, all served to stir the imagination of the public.

The trial itself has been packed with drama of the most breath-taking kind. The taciturn prisoner, unquestionably, deeply involved in the affair if not the actual snatcher, resisting every attempt of the police to break his denial of the kidnaping. Charles Lindbergh, the international idol of the masses, taking the stand and testifying in his level-headed manner. Mrs. Lindbergh, the bereft mother, unable to restrain tears when witnessing to her baby's sleeping garment returned as a token before the futile ransom of $50,000 was paid, almost certainly to Hauptmann. The testimony of Betty Gow, to whom at one time the finger of suspicion seemed to point. The defense council's innuendos concerning the suicide of the Morrow maid Violet, and the sudden demise of Lindbergh's butler, Whately. And above all else the masterly showmanship of Dr. Condon, "Jafsie", who was able to repulse every effort of defense counsel to shake his testimony, and made the keen-witted attorney look at times like a discomfited school boy.

All in all one need not resort to sensational newspaper talk in referring to this as the "trial of the century". It has much to stir the imagination of intelligent persons, aside from the element of gross morbidity ordinarily shown by the avid follower of crime news. For weeks more than 100 million people were hoping and praying the Lindbergh's might have their baby restored safely to their arms. Then came the moment when the body was discovered and a weeping nation set its heart upon avenging this atrocious, unforgiveable crime. President Hoover pointed out to the police of the country that this must be a "never-ending search", to bring the instigators to justice.

One gang after another was under the shade of suspicion as the trail become to the public mind a fainter and fainter scent which seemed destined to disappear in oblivion. But to the Department of Justice the trail remained warm and the scent stayed strong, for month after month the ransom money was trickling back into the channels of trade, and the area in which it was spent pointed to the purveyor being located in the Bronx. Eventually Hauptmann spent a ransom bill with a gas station attendant who took his car number, and a few hours later the Bronx carpenter was arrested.

However the trial may end, newspaper men must be given everlasting credit for their cooperation with police in the apprehension of Hauptmann. For newspaper men were held by their own vows of secrecy, and after the first few weeks following the kidnaping, not a line of news was printed concerning the passing of the Lindbergh ransom money. The silence of the press was undoubtedly the leading incident which brought Hauptmann's arrest, for the German finding no mention was made of the "hot" money he was spending, became emboldened to pass it freely where he went.

Although there is much in the Hauptmann trial to command the legitimate interest of intelligent people, there are certain phases which are disgusting. One of these is the fact that the German is receiving a tremendous amount of "fan" mail. One may be sincere in believing the ex-carpenter is or is not guilty of the kidnaping, but the fact Americans can turn to write idolizing letters to one whom it must be believed is guilty of extortion, or accepting extortion money — is obnoxious to the average mind.

NO LAUGHING MATTER

Last week a local man was given audience by the Addison Advertising Club, to express his hope for assistance here in manufacturing and marketing something which is brand new in the musical instrument line. The speaker was Emery Chase and the instrument was the eight-string violin which he invented, protected by patents and has already made on a small scale. Mr. Chase's proposal was that Addison people should cooperate with him in building up a small industry which could gradually grow into a large manufacturing venture.

Many people will naturally be ready to poohpooh the advisability of any such idea. They will say the old four-string violin has answered all requirements for bow-played instruments through hundreds of years, and that there is no place for an eight-string violin. They may even be so unkind as to characterize Mr. Chase's efforts with this new instrument as the "ramblings of an inventor."

Let us see of this is all true. The writer could not qualify as an expert in the history of musical instruments, but even a layman of ordinary intelligence must know there has been progress. Back in the time of King David we know the harp was a commonly used instrument. Pianos were unknown in those days, yet from the harp musicians with inventive turns of mind finally developed the piano. Before we had the composite instruments of today's brass band, we had the single trumpet, which was first a conch shell and later the rude metal instrument of some four thousand years ago. So with the universally known four-string violin—it was but a development of the viol, an ancient instrument of some three to six strings played with a bow. Is a man to be denied a hearing because he claims he has IMPROVED even a musical instrument that has undergone no fundamental changes in hundreds of years?

Indeed, such an attitude is one of fatalism and defeatism such as caused the Chinese people to worship their ancestors for thousands of years. They believed that everything which was best laid in the past, and the tenacity of that belief kept the Chinese people in befuddled darkness for centuries. Henry Ford was laughed at as a sort of "cracked" inventor when he pushed his first auto out for an uncertain trial. Yet many of the people who laughed at Henry Ford that days, could now be rich if they invested five or ten dollars in that project.

By the same token Mr. Chase's proposition should not be "laughed off" by Addison people. We can see no possibility for the eight-string violin to grow to a manufacturing colossus like the automoble industry, yet with the protection of present patents in the U. S. and similar grants in foreign countries, it could conceivably become a million-dollar industry. This is not such an untried thing as many people believe. A test was made of the eight-string violin at Temple University—a disinterested, skilled musician playing first upon the eight-string and then upon the four-string violin. The judges voted overwhelmingly for the tone quality of the Addison-made instrument. Many other similar testimonials are bringing this new instrument before the eyes of the musical world. It is slowly, but surely winning its way.

Intelligent people do not condemn a proposition without investigation. If some other community should see the merits of this project before Addison, it would be no laughing matter for this village. Let the people here be smart enough to at least carefully investigate this industrial possibility so close at hand.

CONFIDENCE

General Hugh Johnson, in spite of his stormy air of determination in trying to make NRA pull the country out of the doldrums, is not sold on many of the experimental moves of the Administration. In his recent article in the Saturday Evening Post the General voices a belief that the one great thing lacking now is confidence, and confidence will not return until the government adopts a sound monetary policy.

The stormy army officer does not advocate giving up relief programs of one kind or another to prevent our distressed citizens from starving, but firmly states the money for relief should be raised by a firm policy of maintaining the federal credit, instead of continuing to debase our money. He says, "One way is to try to scare money out of people by threats to its value; the other is to try to persuade money out of people by creating confidence in its value."

Other highlights in the General's article are: "The whole structure of private credit rests on the public credit, and as long as the latter is threatened—either by rash action or the fear of rash action—private credit will remain where it is—hibernating in a hole. Not all the threats, entreaties and blandishments in the whole world can cajole it out to activate business, as long as this shadow hangs over it. The other road—scaring money into tangibles by turning fear of values on and off— is a bar not only to production and unemployment but it is a threat to the whole working and white-collar element of the people . . ." "I firmly believe that, if steps were taken tomorrow to put the monetary and borrowing policy of the federal government beyond the shadow of a doubt, this depression would be relegated to the limbo of forgotten things in three months' time."

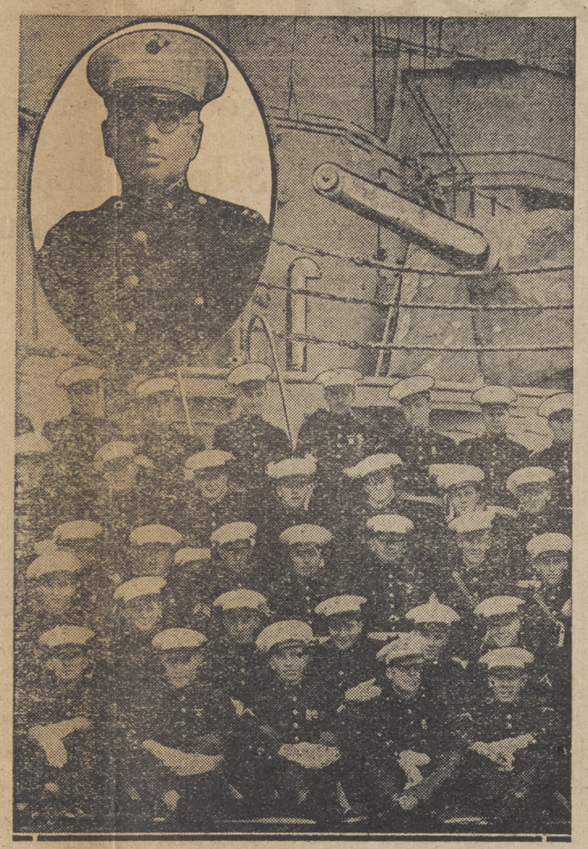
Writing along a different vein but reaching practically the same conclusion, Roger Babson says our future course depends upon confidence. He mentions the fact that bank deposits have increased by over four billion dollars during the past year, but during 1929 the rate of turnover of each bank dollar was 70 times a year in 1933 it was 28 times a year, while today it is turning over only at the rate of 24 times a year.

Says Babson, "Our great problem now is to use our huge bank credit reserves and speed up the turnover of money—not to increase the number of currency dollars in banks or pile up government debt. But before we can have any real credit expansion, confidence must be re-established among business men. If this is done and we use our tremendous facilities for credit expansion, America will see the biggest boom in history. But whether or not confidence will return under the present Administration is a question. A change of government or a coalition government may be necessary to bring back prosperity."

These are just two men, widely known though they may be and acknowledged calibre. But they simply reflect the thought of millions of other American business men who have kept silent necessarily, yet they have watched continually the various moves of the Administration. They have watched and at the same time have steadily hoped eventually the present leaders would turn from dabbling in inflation and adopt a course which would merit the risking of lifetime savings in business investments.

In other words, confidence cannot return until the man with money is convinced investments he may make will not be placed in jeopardy by further dangerous inflationary experiments.

MARINES BREAK NAVY RECORD



Marine Corps gun crews of the U. S. S. Nevada achieve a new high mark in naval gunnery by scoring 47 hits out of 48 shots while at target practice with the fleet. Some of the prize winning sea soldiers are shown above along with their commanding officer, Major Bert A. Bone (insert), whose promotion from captain to major followed the success of his gun crews. A former Addison boy, William Edward Griffiths, has been serving with the "Devil Dogs", as they came to be known in the World War. He is at present stationed at Quantico, Va.

HORSEHEADS— The lowest tax rate in fifteen years, in contrast to the mounting costs in other communities, is the welcome prediction which Village President Oliver D. Eisenhart makes to residents of Horseheads.

The store in the Brooks block at the corner of N. Main and Ithaca street, formerly occupied by the Horseheads Drug Co. and the last vacant store in the business section of Horseheads has been leased by the Elmira Light, Heat and Power Corporation, which will open it to the public as a branch of the Elmira headquarters after extensive alterations have been made.

Mary Ellen Marshall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard K. Marshall, born January 1 and accorded the honor of being the first baby born in Horseheads in 1935, died Sunday. As the first baby of the new year she received many gifts from Elmira merchants.

Republicans At Albany Show New Spirit of Solidarity

Albany—A new spirit of confidence and party solidarity are the outstanding results of the conference which was held last week in Albany at the call of State Chairman Melvin C. Eaton.

Members of the Legislature and County Chairmen discussed practically every issue now before the public, and from this discussion a constructive Republican program will be formulated at the present session of the Legislature.

The most important of these subjects is that of Unemployment Relief w hich, in the opinion of Republicans who attended the conference, has been badly bungled by the present administration in this state. The state has failed to formulate a definite plan and has not recognized that relief is more than a temporary problem.

Unemployment must be dealth with as something which will be with us for many years, the Republicans believe.

It is the Republican view point as brought out at the conference by Senator George R. Fearon and Senator Arthur Wicks and others, that the primary obligation of the state is to provide honest jobs for able bodied men and women out of employment and not to demoralize them with a dole. Consequently it is proposed to create a commission, appointed by the Governor, to map out a long time program of public works such as highway construction, grade crossing eliminations, etc., which will give work not only to those directly employed on the state jobs but also to those indirectly employed in the heavy industries, building supply companies, etc.

The Republicans also took the position that at the earliest possible time the Temporary Emergency Relief Administration should be abolished as a temporary agency and should be set up as a permanent bureau in the State Department of Social Welfare.

Assemblyman Irving Ives, the new minority leader in the lower house, is rapidly demonstrating his ability as a legislative leader. He has the solid support of all the Republican members in the Assembly and is cooperating to the fullest extent with Senator George R. Fearon and the minority members of the Senate. Republicans in Albany are presenting a solid front. The policy as agreed upon is not to oppose any Democratic measures simply because they are Democratic, but to judge all legislation on its merits regardless of who recommends it or introduces it.

Senator John Hanley, popular member of the upper house, from the 44th district, was elected for the seventh time chairman of the Service Men's Committee of the Legislature, a committee which has done much valuable work in aid of veterans of the World War. Senator Hanley was re-elected despite the opposition of the Democratic leaders who felt that since the Democrats controlled both houses of the Legislature this year a Democrat should be chairman of the Service Committee. The veterans, however, refused to allow politics to enter into the organization of their committee and re-elected Senator Hanley over his Democratic opponent by a vote of two to one. He was supported by many Democratic members who in this matter refused to follow the dictates of their legislative leaders.

Republicans won a notable victory in the Senate last week when the resolution providing for a four-year term for Governor and a two-year term for Assemblymen and Senators came to a vote. The Republicans supported the measure but insisted that if there were two-year terms for Assemblymen and a four-year term for Governor the term of the Senators should also be increased from two to four years. Senator Fearon led the debate on the subject, but on the first vote he was steam rolled by the Democrats. The next morning, however, due to very unfavorable press reaction, the Democrats amended the resolution providing for a four-year term for Senators. If this amendment is passed by both houses this year it will again be voted on by the Legislature of 1937 and if passed then will be submitted to the people for their approval in the fall of 1937.

There is a general disposition among Republicans at Albany to oppose the imposition of any new taxes at this session of the Legislature. This opposition also aroused considerable enthusiasm at the Republican Conference. It is felt that the present administration, having accumulated a deficit of one hundred million dollars for which it alone is responsible, has the entire responsibility for leading the state out of its financial difficulties and should not expect support from the Republicans in imposing new taxes at this time.

In his inaugural speech Governor Lehman advocated a reduction in the money returned by the state to localities for schools, highway construction, etc. The mayors of the cities, in attendance at their annual conference in Albany, went on record as being in favor of increased state aid to localities, contending that this was the only way in which real estate taxation can be reduced. Inasmuch as a majority of the mayors are Democrats it is apparent that a family row is in prospect over this subject.

Old Students of Cohocton School To Provide Memorial To Late George H. Guinnip

Tablet in Memory of Prominent Addison Educator, Who Died Several Months Ago, Under Consideration — Committee of Prominent Citizens Engaged on Project.

A move has recently been instituted at Cohocton to provide a memorial in the new Cohocton High School for the late George Horatio Guinnip, who served as principal of Cohocton High School for a period of about twenty years during the 1890's and the early 1900's. Mr. Guinnip, who afterward became the first district superintendent of schools of the district embracing Addison, passed away at his home here several months ago. His widow, a present resident here, was preceptress in the Cohocton school throughout the tenure of Mr. Guinnip's term.

A committee organized some time ago for the purpose of forwarding the memorial project, has been contacting former pupils and much progress has already been made. The following extract is from a recent statement by Ernest Child, committee chairman, which appeared in the Cohocton Times-Index.

"The people of Cohocton have a right and they should feel justly proud of the new school building now nearing completion. This splendid monument should stand for a long time as an inspiration to the children born and reared within its influence and to bring to them a sense of realization of the opportunities and advantages in gaining an education.

"To those of us who belong to another generation of Cohocton's children there is, I believe, a deep and abiding sentiment for what we love to cherish as our school days in the old town. The kindly feeling that lingers in our hearts with reference to educational leadership that was admitted and respected by an entire student body. I refer to the late George H. Guinnip whom we boys and girls of Cohocton for more than a quarter of a century were privileged to call "Prof."

His was a life of sacrifice unselfishly and unstintingly devoted to the interests of all young life that came within his sphere of influence. He had no thought of pets or favorites and all children were equal within his sight. His major motive in his teaching career was to foster and encourage the educational advancement of children. He placed service above self in a true sense of the word. Had he been inclined to the common practice of money-making it is quite obvious he would not have spent an entire active life at teaching school. He lived a life of genuine simplicity and died, no doubt, as he wished, without an accumulation of material wealth. But he left a great heritage to those of us who are still here to remember him and the question arises as to just how we may most fittingly perpetuate his memory.

"It has been proposed by several former students that this could be accomplished by the furnishing of a room in the new school building with a suitable tablet installed therein and dedicated as the George H. Guinnip Memorial. Does it not impress you that the most suitable room for such a purpose would be the library? The latter represents a storeroom of knowledge and information and we as children were wont to look upon Professor Guinnip as having been equally well equipped. The approximate cost of furnishing the room is $900. One of the grade rooms may be furnished at about $300.

Former students and friends of the Mr. Guinnip, it would seem that this is an opportunity and a privilege to show our appreciation of a life that meant much to us when we were children. I believe that in this way we can partially repay a debt of gratitude that we rightfully owe that grand old educator and I know of no better way in which we can fulfill a desire that is deeply imbedded within us. Let's put it over the top."

The committee in charge of the memorial project consists of the following representative citizens, all former students at the Cohocton High School during the period that Mr. Guinnip served as principal and Mrs. Guinnip as preceptress: Ernest Child, chairman, Leatha Shafer Sandback, Elizabeth Stein, Fannie Snyder Oliver, Elizabeth Glover Myers, Mary Rocker Gehrig and Nellie Glover Tomes.

TO FORM
8-STRING VIOLIN
CONCERN

At once, the names of all persons are wanted who would wish to take part in the forming of a concern for the promotion, manufacture and sales of this new and matchless type of violin. The equal of which has not hitherto been produced in the world!

This instrument represents a monoply by virtue of its various patents. It has surpassed in tone-quality every violin tried in comparison against it. It is the first of its kind in the world.

The violin over the U. S. represents millions upon millions of invested capital. Its players are variously estimated to number 1 4to 15 million persons. Nearly 100 per cent of these players who have heard or tried the eight-string violin are not only strong converts to its excellence but anxious, MORE THAN ANXIOUS, to possess one of this modern type. Its tons so far surpass those not only of the old form of violin (four-string) but every other type of musical instrument in the world, in beauty as well as in accuracy!

Tests made in one of the largest acoustical laboratories in America have brought to light facts which prove beyond all contradiction that the intonation of the eight-string violin is more than doubly accurate over all other stringed instruments!

Up to now the sales of the eight-string violin have been hindered and limited by the unavoidably high cost of production. Because attention in its development was riveted solely upon merit quality instead of upon cheapness; but now in turning attention to better facilities and less time in production, ways have been found to reduce the cost one-half or two-thirds the original amount.

Now, we want a company; and a systematic means of manufacture and of selling.

If only one person in each 20 of the violinists of America eventually buys and eight-string violin, which is very conservative reckoning, six or eight million dollars cash profit would result! All of which goes to show the tremendous magnitude of the violin as a whole over America. The eight-string is the only rival the violin (old form) has ever had.

There are millions of dollars in this new form of violin for those who are its promotors. It can make every individual rich who joins in its producton. My own investments in cash and effort alone, have already gone into some thousands of dollars. The project, however, is too big for one man alone to handle. I must have helpers of all sorts; but for the present, we want people to step forward who will assist in a material way in helping to get started, and join our forces.

One man has already come forward to join us if we can get others to help to push and to eventually reap its tremendous benefits.

EMERY H. CHASE

In Memorium

In loving remberance of my father, William O. Groves, who died January 15. 1934.

"He who knew no doubt or fear
While he lived and labored here."
We learn this truth from death that life alone
Is filled with separations.
Those who die never again take the train or say goodbye.
We of the world must often separate
The walls whicn shut us out are stout and strong
But neither time nor space nor duties grim
Can keep a man's beloved dead from him.

Style and Beauty Strongly Emphasized By Chevrolet

New Standard Models Featuring High-Powered Performance With Economy Are Announced—Both Master De Luxe and New Standard Have Many Innovations.

Master De Luxe models, strongly emphasizing beauty and style, and New Standard models, featuring high-powered performance with economy, were announced this week by Chevrolet.

Master De Luxe body models include sedan, coach, business coupe with luggage compartment, sport coupe with rumble seat, sport sedan and town sedan. In addition to the coach, business coupe, phaeton and sport roadster, which comprised the Standard line last year, the 1935 New Standard line includes a full sized four-door sedan and a sedan delivery car for light commercial uses.

The 1935 New Standard has been given virtually the same performance ability as the Master De Luxe which, however, departs distinctly from previous Chevrolets in striking advances in design of body and trim. The engines, incorporating many improvements over the 1934 Master motor, are of the same size and design in both models, while in the chassis the chief difference is the presence of the Master De Luxe of Chevrolet enclosed knee-action suspension, now entering its second year improved in construction and operation.

Mechanically, the two models have in common numerous important improvements in construction and design. Both engines have an original system of high pressure jets supplying oil to connecting rod bearings, and electro-plated pistons, heavier crankshafts and other new features that contribute to better performance, smoothness and economy. In both chassis, newly designed clutches, more efficient braking system, stiffer frames and other advances in design give greater ease of operation, increased durability and a better ride.

Master De Luxe Appearance

Visually, the new Master DeLuxe retains only the characteristic outlines of the radiator, and the familiar trade-mark on hub caps and radiator emblem, to indicate that it is of Chevrolet origin. The V-radiator itself is narrower and more sloping, the unit fenders are highly contoured in their streamlining, while the windshield not only slopes back steeply but also is slightly V-shaped, causing all the forepart of the car to flow smoothly into the body, which is the utmost in smoothness. By utilizing the newly developed all-steel roof construction, Chevrolet has attained a sleekness formerly impossible, its highly crowned roof sweeping from the windshield to the streamlined, graceful rear end in a continuous curve, an effect heightened by the absence of roof panels and moldings and by the continuity of body color over the entire top.

Every detail of the car is new, starting with the front bumper and including the radiator grill, the ornament that supplants the radiator filler-cap (now under the hood), the horizontal hood louvres, the running-board pattern, streamlined door handles, spare tire mountings (concealed in some models), tail-lamp and rear bumper. Aside from appearance, there are important improvements in body comfort and spaciousness, and especially in the ride. The wheelbase of the new Master De Luxe is increased to 113 inches, and an even greater increase in body space has been gained by moving the engine forward. The appearance of great length has been enhanced by lowering the floor level, dropping it one inch nearer the ground by lowering the chassis side rails.

The Master De Luxe sport and town sedans have integral trunks embodied in the rear panels, with compartments for the spare wheel. In the three sedans, pressed steel wheels with short rounded spokes are regular equipment. Wire wheels with large hub caps are used on the other models.

Master Body De Luxe Style Features

Master bodies, distinguished for the originality of their ensemble design, contain many noteworthy individual features. Windows have gracefully roundeded corners to harmonize with the streamlining. Doors extend lower below the floor, giving an appearance of fleetness, and are reshaped with rounded corners at the top. The belt molding is carried from the hood into the car, broadening on the doors, then tapering toward the rear. The windshield is sloped sharply (31½ degrees) and V-shaped, giving improved vision and reducing wind resistance and noise. Its center metal strip is chrominum-plated outside and grained inside to match the interior trim. The windshield wiper is mounted below the glass, lying snug along the lower edge of the windshield when not in use, and sweeping an arc of 180 degrees when operating; its motor, concealed under the instrument board, at the center, is arranged to serve a second wiper covering the right windshield panel. Fisher no-draft ventilation is continued in all models. The remote control door handle in the front doors is at the front of the arm rest, and is reshaped to prevent its catching in clothing.

Milton Crane In Insurance Field

Lafayette College Graduate Joins Father in Addison Agency—Concern is Successor to Two Pioneer Agencies.

Milton H. Crane, graduate of Lafayette College in the class of 1934, has recently become associated with his father, Elbert D. Crane, in the insurance business in Addison. The business will hereafter be known as the Crane Insurance Agency.

"Milt", as he is popularly known to his Addison friends and neighbors, was graduated from the Addison High School in the class of 1930. He was active in basketball and baseball while at the local school. At Lafayette, he played on the freshmen basketball and baseball teams and was also active in fraternity athletics. He was also a member of Alpha Chi Rho, one of the outstanding national fraternities and was prominent and active in all campus affairs. He recently passed both the insurance brokers examinations and the agents' examination, required by the state as a preliminary to engaging in these respective phases of the insurance business.

MILTON H. CRANE

Elbert D. Crane, father of Milton H., entered the insurance field in 1923. In 1927 he purchased the agency of Eugene Wade and Son, an old-established concern which had been doing business in Addison for fifty years or more. In the same year, Mr. Crane purchased the W. B. Clark agency, a concern originally established by Congressman C. W. Gillet who was agent and one of the stockholders of the Home Insurance Company of New York, one of the original pioneer companies.

The Crane Agency handles all forms of fire, tornado, auto liability, compensation, accident, health, rent and all lines of liability insurance. Among the companies which the agency represent are the Agricultural, Continental, Fire Association, Glens Falls, Hartford, Home, Insurance Company of North America, Phoenix, Royal Exchange, Indemnity Company of North America, Merchants' Mutual, United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company and the American Surety Company. In this group are included four of the largest insurance companies in the United States—these being the Home, Hartford, Continental and the North America.

A Better Health Absurdity On Milk

New York State laws place a production selling price for milk. This is a wise law and protects the producer.

New York State is spending half a million dlolars in advertising the value of milk as a health food. There should be no objection to this. New York State fixes the retail price of milk delivered to the consumer. This is compelling thousands of families to buy canned milk.

Chain stores and wholesale grocers buy this canned milk by the car load, and distribute it by truck to the various stores.

The Borden Company uses the radio to advocate the value of canned milk.

Many producers would be glad to deliver good milk at much less than the state law allows.

Canned milk produced in other states is being sold in the dairy sections of New York State, and the sale is rapidly increasing.

In the name of common sense and for better health, retail competition should be allowed—and more milk would be used.

Health Officer.

MRS. PHEBE ENGLEHARDT

The death of Mrs. Phebe Lloyd Englehardt, aged 74 years and 5 months, occurred suddenly at her home in Rathbone, probably on Sunday evening, her body being found on the living room floor Monday morning by a neighbor, who called as was her custom, to do whatever errands Mrs. Englehardt required.

In the opinion of the physician, who was immediately summoned, her death had probably occurred at about six o'clock in the evening before.

Mrs. Englehardt, born in the town of Rathbone the daughter of Squire and Mrs. George C. Lloyd, had been a resident of the village of Rathbone for a number of years, coming there from her farm on Northrup Hill where she had spent the greater part of her life.

Mrs. Englehart was town clerk at the time of her death, an office she had held for ten years. She also had been active in church work so long as her health permitted.

Surviving are a sister, Mrs. Henry Merring of Cameron Mills, R. D. 2; several nieces and nephews, two cousins, Mrs. Sylvia Allen of Rathbone and James Selleck of Addison.

Funeral services will be held at two o'clock this (Thursday) afternoon from the Methodist Church. the Rev. J. O. Mabuce of Corning, officiating, assisted by the Rev. J. W. Babcock of Woodhull. Burial will be in the Town Line Cemetery.

Dr. Stiker Talks On Health At Erwin School

Lynn A. Taylor Now Sole Owner Of Addison Red & White Store

Formerly Manager and Part Owner, Local Man Purchases Interest of S. M. Flickinger Co.—Will Continue Buying Contract—Has Had Long and Successful Career in Food and Grocery Line.

Lynn A. Taylor, manager and part owner of the Addison Red & White store since March, 1930, has purchased the interest of the S. M. Flickinger Co. in the local store and will hereafter be sole owner and manager. The change is effective immediately. Mr. Taylor will continue the business as a Red & White store, under a special buying contract with the Flickinger Co.

Mr. Taylor, who is a native of Addison, has had a successful career of more than twenty-five years in the retail food and grocery line. He began as clerk in the store conducted by W. O. Feenaughty. The Feenaughty store was one of the largest retail food stores in this section of the country at that time. It occupied the present location of the Gilhooley Restaurant and the adjoining store now occupied by the insurance office of Nelson Payne.

After seven years in the employ of Mr. Feenaughty and two years additional in the employ of John Pepper, who later conducted the business, Mr. Taylor went on the road as a salesman for Heyniger, Pitt and Co., wholesale grocers of Corning. Later he operated a confectionery store in the present M. G. Hubbs location. After disposing of the confertionery business to Peter Doddato, Mr. Taylor took charge of the grocery department for F. G. Phillips, who later established the chain of Cash Food Stores.

Following an association of about four years with Mr. Phillips' concern, Mr. Taylor went back on the road as a salesman for the George L. Curtis Co. which later consolidated with the S. M. Flicklinger Co., who established the Red & White stores.

"There will be no change of policy in any respect" said Mr. Taylor yesterday in discussing the change of ownership. "We have always carried high grade, first quality merchandise and this policy will be adhered to as in the past. As sole owner of an independently owned and operated store, I shall be privileged to buy the same dependable merchandise at the same favorable prices as heretofore. I shall endeavor to give the greatest possible service and satisfaction and to insure that every customer shall be a satisfied customer."

SCOUT BAKE SALE NETS APPROXIMATELY $14

Approximately $14.00 was cleared from the bake sale conducted last Saturday by the Addison Girl Scouts at Handy's Hardware. Mrs. John E. Chart was in charge of the event. She was assisted by Mrs. Robert Magoon. The soliciting was done by members of the scout troop.

Scout Council Enters New Year With All Debts Cleared

Active Membership on January 1 Was 47 Troops and 1301 Scouts — Woodhull and Jasper Included Among Communities Which Have Paid Full Assessments.

Messrs. Frank Kelly, Charles Salerno and Dr. Matthew Whitmore, who represent the local Boy Scout Troop on the Steuben Area Council, released the following advanced information from the annual reports of the scout executive and treasurer to be presented before the executive board at Bath Monday night, January 21. The council operated under its approved budget for 1934. In spite of an expanded service since the appointment of an assistant executive in September, no increase in expenditures was experienced compared with previous years. The actual total cost of operation for the year was $9908.77. In addition to all expenditures for operation the council retired the last of an old operating deficit in 1928. So the council enters the new year with no debts whatsoever. The net active membership on January 1 was 47 troops and 1301 Scouts.

A survey of membership for the past twelve months shows 1789 different scouts to have been enrolled. This number includes all who were enrolled between January 1 and December 31 and includes the following communities in this area: Addison, 43; Campbell, 14; Canisteo, 103; Elkland, 43; Jasper, 22; Troupsburg, 30; Westfield, 48; Woodhull, 38.

The bulk of the revenue came as in past years from the two cities, although a number of smaller communities paid their full assessment on per capita of population basis including Elkland, Westfield, Hammondsport, Jasper, Pulteney and Woodhull. A complete summary of revenues follows: Addison $198, Alfred $96, Almond $66, Arkport $33, Atlanta $26.45, Avoca $50, Bath $531, Canisteo $199, Cohocton $50, Dansville $500, Elkland $347, Hammondsport $186, Jasper $47, Springwater $40, Monterey $35, Prattsburg $19.50, Pulteney $47, Wayland $98.15, Westfield $129.83, Woodhull $51, Hornell and North Hornell $3057, Corning and Painted Post $4404.01.

The local representatives plan to attend a meeting of the new finance committee to be held incident to the executive board session in Bath next week. At that time the new budget of $12,000 will be allocated to the several communities. It is rumored that a simultaneous campaign for the year 1935 will be staged throughout the area in late March and early April. The simultaneous campaign would not cover either of the two chest centers—Corning and Hornell.

Three Jasper High School Teams Victorious Over Worthy Foes

High School Girls Conquer Town Team Aggregation —Varsity Downs Addison Seconds in Game Marked by Much Roughness — Jasper Defeats Newly Organized Troupsburg Team By One-Sided Score.

A large crowd turned out to see three Jasper high school teams triumph in three thrilling games Saturday night. In the opener, the high school girls engaged in a fast first half with the girls' town team. The high school took the lead in the first quarter and held it 2-0 until the last minute of the second quarter. Then the town team dropped a clean one and the score stood 2-2 at the half. Loud cheers went up from either side of the court. Apparently Miss Brewer, coach of the high school team, delivered a wonderfully inspiring speech to her team during the interval, for they promptly went to work in the third quarter. Running their plays thru accurately they promptly boosted their score until it was 16-4 at the third quarter. The town team tightened their defense during the last period so that the final score stood 23-4. During the last half, there were three sister acts on the Floor. Pauline and Loretta Brabant were responsible for a large portion of the high school's points from their forward positions and the "Preston Twins", Irene and Inez, as guards, held the town team to one lone basket during the last half. In the center, Norva and Mattie Murphy vied with each other for the tip-off. Both teams were enthusiastically cheered in an impartial manner.

Jasper First Trim Addison Seconds

In the main event of the evening, the high school first team sent the Addison seconds home to the tune of 28-9. The local team took off with a jump and led the visitors all the way. The local team played heads-up basketball all through the game and were never in danger. The score stood 6-1 at the first quarter, so Coach Beacom puled part of the first team and shoved in some reserves. These worked so successfully that the score stood at 12-3 at the half.

In the third quarter, Beacom shoved in the first string men again and ran the score up rapidly. With several minutes to play in the third quarter, he pulled most of the first string and substituted more seconds. The score stood 20 to 5 at the third quarter. Beacom then sent L. Schenck, first string forward in to jump center and all second team in to support him and this aggregation managed to gain on Addison till the final score stood at 28-9. Waight, flashy Jasper forward, was high with five baskets, and Domenick was high for Addison with two baskets and two fouls. The game was marked with much roughness and a large number of fouls called on either side. From the writer's viewpoint, the roughness was caused by the players' overeagerness and not by deliberate fouling. In the opening minute of play, Gardner, forward of the Addison team, dove for the ball and struck the bridge of his nose on a seat along the sidelines. He was withdrawn from the game but went in later and played well. Apparently his injury was not serious.

Seconds Beat Troupsburg

In the third game of the evening, the Jasper seconds were pitted against Troupsburg High School and gave evidence of the excellent reserve material possessed by Jasper. Playing in deadly earnest for the first half, the local team ran the score to 19-0 at the half. The Troupsburg aggregation had no chance to work the ball in for short shots and were not allowed to get set for long shots. In the third quarter, the local boys again ran their score up, this time 35-0. The final peak was reached in the minute of the last quarter when the score stood at 37-0. Then Resue, guard of the Troupsburg team, let go a long one that sunk, dead center. Loud cheering by the entire crowd resulted. Troupsburg made three more baskets in rapid succession and Jasper added one more to bring the final total to 39-8. The sensation of this game was the phenomenal playing of Joe Lewis, third string guard of the Jasper team. Lewis managed to get into the Addison game long enough to get warm and score two baskets. In the Troupsburg game he got hot and dropped six baskets and a foul besides monopolizing the attention of the crowd with his rapid dribbling and passing. In addition to his own shooting, he was of great assistance to the other members of the team by working the ball in till they could get free shots under the basket.

These games showed what excellent condition the Jasper squad is in for the game with Campbell here next Friday night. Extra practice has been ordered for this week and the local boys feel that they will take the measure of the visiting team the 18th.

Bluebirds To Crash With Cardinals Tuesday

Wellington Bouck's Jasper Bluebirds will entertain Art Gee's Woodhull Cardinals on the Jasper court Tuesday evening, January 22. The Cards took the decision in the first engagement some three weeks ago, but the Bluebirds have been pointing toward the battle of Tuesday next and have every expectation of evening things up. A capacity crowd is expected.

Painted Post To Play in Addison Friday Night

Addison fans are looking forward to another hot game on the local court Friday evening when the Painted Post Indians come here for their first encounter with the Knights.

After C. F. A. and Northside soundly trounced Painted Post the Indians were thought lightly of until last Friday evening, when they all but lifted the scalp off the Hornell aggregation. Any team that can come so close to defeating the speedy Maples as did the Posters, cannot be considered soft picking in this year of up-sets. The Indians were actually leading most of the way down the final stretch, being ahead 21 to 20 with about a minute and a half left in the final stanza. Only the dash and speed of Hornell's great forward, Mitchell, averted disaster, as the diminutive player made two baskets in rapid succession in the final seconds to clinch the game.

Some observers believe the great showing of the Indians in Friday's game was partly due to the letdown of Hornell, which was certainly not in the best of shape after losing a terrifically fast game to Addison on Tuesday. But the Addison outfit is not taking any unnecessary chances of being thrown in Friday night's encounter by overconfidence. A big crowd of fans is expected out to cheer their favorites to victory.

Addison Ags Trounce Bath

Finnerty's Men Got off to Slow Start, Yielding 8-0 Lead in First Quarter — Come Back Strong With Heldrick and Hallett Showing the Way — McGlynn Shines For Bath.

Playing their first game in the Steuben County Future Farmers' League at Bath last Friday night, the Addison Aggies started on their conquest of a second county championship by defeating the Bath Aggies, 44-29.

Led by "Big Boy" McGlynn, two hundred and fifty pound center, and by Minichollo, fast cutting guard, the county seat lads ran up an 8-0 lead before shots by Allison, Matthews and Ward closed the gap as the quarter ended. With the resumption of play the Addison Ags placed a new team on the floor and they quickly overcome their opponents lead on baskets by Hallett, Heidrick, Beers, and Reagan. At the half, Finnerty's men were leading, 24-18.

The second half saw the Addison players slowly increase their lead, although frequent substitutions cut down the consistent scoring. Heidrick and Hallett led the scoring for the locals, while McGlynn and Minichillo were the stars for the Bath aggregation.

Coach Hewson's Tossers Invade County Seat For 25 to 16 Win

The Addison High School basket ball team continued its winning ways at Bath last Friday evening by trouncing the County Seaters 25 to 16. The win, while C. F. A. was losing, gave the Knights a tighter grip on first place now held jointly by Hornell, Northside and Addison.

To Coach Hewson's boys Friday evening's meeting was just another game, and Bath was just another team to be looked over, measured and then pushed out of the picture. The Knights did just that. In the first period the Addison boys played their characteristic waiting game, just as they did at Hornell. Bath started strong, tossing in eight points during the quarter while the Knighs sized them up, doped out their style of play, and let them run themselves ragged about the big court. Like a small boy taking his new toys to pieces, the Addison boys were curious to know how this Bath team functioned, and were willing to spot them six points while finding out.

Having satisfied themselves there was nothing on the Bath squad to give alarm to prospective champions, Robbins, Wilson and Company opened the second quarter with a barrage from all guns that quickly blasted sudden sprung hopes of Bath fans who momentarily thought their favorites might spring a sprprise by dumping the league leaders. Going through the Bath defense like a ten ton truck through a rickety wooden bridge the Knights dropped in the buckets from all angles of the court. When the smoke of the period had cleared away the score stood 19 to 9, Coach Hewson's boys having worn out the score keepers' pencils with a total of 17 points for the quarter. Before the first half was finished "Bill" Wilson was pulled out for a well deserved rest and Gillespie was taking his place in the forward wall.

Early in the second half Robbins was chased to the showers via the four personal foul route, and Gillespie replaced him in the lineup, Hargrave jumping center for the remainder of the game. Through the rest of the contest the Addison boys were content to coast along, merely protecting their safe margin with additional points when Bath threatened to rally.

Despite the fact he played a little more han half the game, Robbins again led his team mates with eight points. Wilson also began locating the hoop consistently after a shooting slump which has dogged him for several games, accounting for seven points. Hickey had six, Hargrave three and Flynn one. Although Gillespie failed to get the ball through the hoop he played a nice game while in the fray and had several shots which missed by the narrowest of margins. As usual Addison's pair of stellar guards, Hickey and Flynn, were a bulwark of strength in the back-court and kept the scoring threats of the County Seaters pretty well smothered most of the evening except in the first quarter.

Had the Knights been pushed to extend themselves all evening they might have run up a far more impressive score. But they only had a two day rest after the grueling Hornell battle and their coach was content to let them coast through the game. This stretch of three games in one week's time has been a tough looking spot in the Knight's schedule, and now they are through it with two victories they have earned a well deserved respite until the Painted Post game Friday evening.

Wide-Open Race in Steuben County League Stirs Interest

The Addison High School basketball team more firmly seated on top of the league ladder beside Hornell and Corning Northside, finds its chances of a pennant greatly improved by the drubbing C. F. A. received last Friday on the Tiger's court. The downfall of C. F. A. tumbled the Hillsters out of that four-way tie and gives Addison practically the best chance it has ever had of annexing top honors.

Although down a peg in the race C. F. A. cannot be definitely counted out until the Academy has lost one more game. No question now remains that one of the four teams on top will be the winner and of these Hornell and Northside have the hardest remaining schedules. Hornell has four crucial games left, only one of which is at home. The Maples must play a home and home series with Northside, meet C. F. A. on the latter's box court and come to Addison for a return game with the Knights. Northside besides tangling twice with Hornell, must invade C. F. A. and meet Addison in Corning on a court almost identical with A. H. .S gym floor. Addison must play that return game at Northside, go to C. F. A. for an always difficult game with the Academy and entertain Hornell.

To forecast a winner at the middle of a season so full of up-sets as this one is a dangerous thing, but anyone is entitled to guess, and that is all we are doing. Northside will be fortunate indeed to get an even break in the Hornell series, if one may judge anything by the performance of the two teams against Addison. The Tigers will almost certainly lose on the Academy floor, or to Addison and probably will drop both of these games and sink out of the race. Although Hornell may not do better than break even in the Northside series—the big Tiger court will be a handicap to the Maples—the speedy attack of Mitchell and Green can be gambled on to function almost as effectively in the second game against C. F .A. as the first. The one game Hornell is fearing now, is that third encounter with Addison on the local floor. After being tied once and beaten by the Knights in Hornell few dopesters would pick Hornell to win in Addison, we least of all. C. F. A. has an advantage in that the three remaining major games are on the "trick" Academy court, but in Hornell the Blue and White will meet a five accustomed to a small floor, and a five that is capable of putting on a most dizzying pass attack. We will be surprised to see C. F. A. win that one. Most any observer will grant the Academy will beat Northside on the Hill floor, but the Addison game is another matter. In winning at Addison the C. F. A. quintet played over their heads most of the time. In their favor was an unusual streak of luck with unorthodox shots and a loose job of refereeing. The Knights will be going to C. F. A. determined to take that game and previous records should actually help them.

The Addison boys played a closer, more aggressive game on the Hill court last year than they did at home. Back in the 1926-27 race Addison won in Corning and lost at home, thus going into a tie for the championship. C. F. A. won the play-off on the Painted Post court.

No forecast of the current league race could be complete without bringing in the element of the Painted Post Indians. While the Post has hardly an arithmetical chance of winning, the type of basketball the Indians played against Hornell is dangerous to the peace of mind of any contender. Before this season is ended some team's hopes may be rudely dashed on the Indians' court. Addison fans will be out to watch with some little misgivings when the Posters come to the A. H. S. gym floor Friday evening.

However the outcome of this league race, next to never has a Steuben County flag chase been so wide open, with four teams definitely in the running.

Eagle's Nest About To Silence Valley Taunters

Irritating taunts from the Bluebirds of Jasper, the Redbirds of Woodhull and other neighboring feathered flocks have caused a stir in the Eagle's Nest. The one-time kins of the basket ball firmament have flapped their wings and shrieked defiance. Practice or no practice, they say they will wing it up the valley anytime their tormentors say and forthwith give either or both of these "songbird" aggregations a sample of the big birds claws.

The line-up of the Eagles is yet to be announced. Reports have it, however, that many of the old favorites have been irked by the saucy valley fowl and it is expected that the Nester's will swoop up the river with full strength at their command.

Golden Eagle McDermott will possibly be seen at center. Sea Eagle Milt Crane and Lone Eagle Hewson are apt to cavort around the forward berths. Bald Eagle Dee Grange and Spread Eagle Pop Riker are good guesses for the defensive posts. Blue Eagle Jay Grange may also be provoked to show his wares. If the much discussed contest doesn't come off until after the school season closes it is possible that Maurice Robbins will grow eagle's wings.

Definite announcements for the appearance of the Nesters on the Woodhull and Jasper courts are expected soon. The Eagles contend they will silence, once and for all, these chesty Red and Blue birds.

Hotaling Stars In Cards Victory Over Canaseraga Kings

Dingwell's Floor Work Impressive as Woodhull Aggregation Tops Allegany County Five, 36-16—Drake Fills in at Center in Place of Injured Woodward.

Art Gee's Woodhull steamroller chugs merrily on its way. The Canaseraga Kings are the latest to be flattened by the Cardinal court machine. Score 36 to 16. It all happened on the Canaseraga court January 8.

Hotaling was high scorer with 14 points to his credit. Dingwell's floor work was impressive and aided much toward the victory of the Red Birds. Woodward was absent from the center berth and Bob Drake was moved from forward as a replacement. Preston and Cady turned in creditable performances. Feil and Eldridge scored six points each for the Kings.

Jasper All-Stars Eclipse Girls Team 31-10; Bluebirds Lose

Feminine Five Shows Excellent Passing But Yield the Victory Through Ineffective Shooting—Cudebec, Towering Center, Drops Baskets at Will to Gain Laurels For Almond.

Kenneth Schoonover's All-Stars staked an easy win over the female team tonight when they ran up thirty-one points to the women's ten. Moore at center for the All-Stars was hibh point man with eight baskets to his credit. Manager Schoonover was close behind him with four baskets and afoul shot. Murphy, center of the girl's team was high with three baskets. the men took the lead in the first quarter and were never headed. The girls' low score was attributed to their inability to make baskets and not to close guarding on the part of the men. However, the girls' backcour passing was accurate and they were able to work the ball in under the basket well. Moore and Schoonover repeatedly worked the ball in to score most of the points for the men. Half of the game was played under girls' rules and half of it under professional rules.

In the nightcap, the Almond town team took the Bluebirds for a sleigh ride. Cudebec, elongated center of the Almond team, held the spotlight most of the game. Standing a full head taller than any man on the floor, he was able to intercept passes and shoot baskets at will. However, his best feature was that he got every tip-off of the evening and thereby was of great assistance to his team in their scoring plays. The visitors had the lead from the start and held it throughout the game. The local team was on the defensive for three quarters of the game and were practically unable to score until the final quarter.

In the final period, the Bluebirds threw all cautin to the winds and launched a terrific attack that netted them 15 points. Spectators stated later that had this attack been launched earlier in the game, the Bluebirds might easily have won. Almond was able to score but one lone basket during that last hectic period. The score at the final whistle was 37-18. Some argument ensued after the final whistle as to the status of a basket shot by Cudebec at the final second of tthe game. However, as usual, the referee was right and Cudebec lost credit for his basket as the referee ruled that it was in his hands at the whistle. Dickenson, guard of the Almond team was high man of the evening with seven baskets. His running mate, Whitford was second high with five goals. For the Bluebirds, Whipple was first with four baskets and Beacom and Bouck were second with two each. The Bluebirds engage Cameron on their own court next Tuesday night and the Girl's Town team meets Kenneth Schoonover's All-Stars as a preliminary.

Big Gathering Turns Out For Exhibition Bouts in Addison

Bucky Teachman Falls Before Attack of Kid Adams, Fistic Veteran, After Valiant Struggle — Frank Crane, Russell Crane, Young Teachman are Winners—Eddie Chart Injured Knee Stops Bout.

Boxing and wrestling took a new lease of life in Addison Friday evening when a hundred and fifty fans turned out to witness the card of six exhibition matches staged under the direction of Ralph A. Hotchkiss of Bath. The arena was roped off on the stage of the City Hall auditorium where Johnny Gabarino of Hornell, former well known fistic contender in the lightweight ranks, held forth as the impromptu Joe Humphreys, announcing the events and the judges' decisions in clear, resonant tone which carried to all corners.

Kid Adams Spills Bucky

The main bout, scheduled as a six rounder of two minutes each, brought within the roped enclosure two widely advertised artists of the slugging fraternity, Kid Adams of Bath, and Addison's own Bucky Teachman. Both boys dug in with a vengeance from the opening bell. Bucky crashed through with a couple of stinging lefts early in the fray, but as the rounds progressed it became rapidly apparent that the Kid's superior craftsmanship, gained from years of experience against pick of the crop in the pro and semi-pro ranks, was not to be denied.

Soon after the second round got underway, the Kid had Bucky down for a count of six. The ex-cavalryman sprang back to his feet and valiantly carried the battle to his more experienced opponent. Adams stood his ground and retaliated with a devastating volley of jabs and upper cuts which left the home boy dazed and groggy as the stanza ended. In the third, the county seat carpenter drove in with pile-driving attack which polished Bucky off for the count of ten.

Teachman was clearly outclassed but he gave a demonstration of courage and aggressiveness in the face of withering odds which will long be remembered among local ringside followers. He absorbed wicked punishment without a quiver and fought on when hope seemed gone. He was plainly not in the best of condition and needs the seasoning of a few grilling bouts before squaring off again against one of Adams' class. The Kid handled his mits with the poise and grace of the respected veteran which he is; his punches carried dynamic force and he presented an impenetrable defense which Bucky couldn't fathom. Class will tell and the Kid had it.

But Bucky says he's coming back and a legion of enthusiasts who marveled at his gameness Friday night will be clinging to his bandwagon as he again ventures forth along the cauliflower trail.

Other Bouts

In the semi-final Frank Crane of Addison outpointed Charlie Simms in a blistering three-round setto. The Bath behemoth and the Goodhue blacksmith mixed mits with a speed and ferociousness which had the assembled clientele in an uproar. Big Frank spurned the conventional fighting togs and squared off in an informal attire of full length undies, grey shirt and trousers to match. Like others on the bill this bout drew a big hand and stirred the fans who had come demanding action. They got it.

Russell Crane and Pete Henley provided an all home-talent show and they gave the customers an eyefull. Youth will win, they say, and this time youth did. But only after the closest kind of a battle. Russ's aggressiveness in the final round gained him the decision.

Another Addison favorite, Eddie Chart, contesting in the 133 pound class, took to the wars against Wee Willie Williams of Corning. Eddie entered the ring with his left knee heavily taped following an accident suffered in training several days ago. The injury was too much of a handicap and although Eddie gamely contended he was right in the pink, he yielded at the close of the first round to the advice of older heads and the bout was called off rather than risk permanent injury.

Young Teachman, Bucky's brother, tangled with Tony Luffred of Corning and gained the judge's decision. Both boys are in the paper weight class. Luffred hastened to the ADVERTISER scribe following the fray and hurled his challenge to the four winds for a return engagement. Tony contends he can make Young Teachman look like a kindergarten student in another go.

Red Hodge of Hammondsport took the measure of Ted Leary of Addison by a hairline decision in the first prelim. Ted also issued a minority report and is gunning for a rehearing. Benny DeGray of Bath wrestled ten furious minutes to no decision with Archie Squires of Hammondsport.

Pete Luffred of Corning was the third man in the ring and satisfied most everybody. Bing Huggins dropped his cleaver for an evening and hustled up-stage to preside as timekeeper. He wielded the hammer which such mighty strokes that the gong reverberated hither and yon over the ears of the awe-struck audience. As Bucky and the Kid were getting adjusted for the big show, Jerome "Sunshine" Manley, was ushered within the ropes and smilingly acknowledged his intrduction as the ex-champion. In deference to his popular appeal, the orchestra, which played between bouts, struck up "Auld Lang Syne". The incident provided a very pleasing interlude and added to the glamour of the bill.

The crowd was well-ordered and well-behaved at all times. Promoter Hotchkiss was much pleased with the interest shown.

Warner's Mammouth New Musical Said To Be Best of All Romances

"Dames", Warner Bros.' latest mammoth musical comedy romance with spectacular ensembles by Busby Berkeley and an all-star cast headed by Joan Blondell, Dick Powell and Ruby Keeler, is scheduled as the feature attraction at the Avon Theatre beginning Sunday for three days.

The story, by the well known playwrights, Robert Lord and Delmar Daves, is said to be hilarious comedy tinged with a glamorous romance. It treats of a somewhat hypocritical and highly eccentric multimillionaire whose chief concern in life is other people's morals, but who eventually gets drunk on cough medicine and is taken for a sleighride by a gold-digging chorus girl.

In addition to the all star cast there are 300 of Hollywood's most beautiful chorus girls who dance in the Busby Berkeley numbers.

Mileage Hints

By J. F. Winchester, S.A.E.

COLD weather starting difficulties make the automobile battery work harder in the winter than in the summer. Moreover, during the winter months the average car is driven mostly at nights, during which time the drain on the battery is quite large.

With a little care the motorist can ease considerably the strain on his battery and make it easier to start the car even in zero weather.

First, he should use a crankcase lubricant that is not too heavy, one designed specifically for winter. He should be sure his starting motor is clean, that there is no transmission drag due to too heavy a lubricant and that all battery connections are tight. A weak spark, improperly adjusted ignition points, a sticking carburetor choke and a motor fuel unsuited to winter driving are to be avoided.

The average person fails to realize that the capacity of the battery is lower at low temperatures than at high. Consequently the battery may need recharging oftener in winter than in summer.

Don't hesitate to have your battery charged at a service station if a hydrometer reading indicates that it needs it. A fully charged battery is required for the winter operation of an automobile, and the small sum paid for charging will be returned many times over in the form of easier operation of the car.
